

LIKE AS OF FIRE

Newspapers from the Azusa Street World Wide Revival

Reprint and Reissue of the original newspapers, published (1906-1909) from 312 Azusa Street, Los Angeles, California . . . former center of the modern Pentecostal Movement in North America.

In this collection, you will read reports of how a small integrated prayer group of less than fifty persons were baptized with the Holy Ghost, personally received spiritual power within their lives and began immediate public witnessing of the dynamic experience. Within twelve months the congregation of various denominations, led by William J. Seymour, grew into multiple hundreds. Its impact upon society was unusually effective through evangelism, and domestic and foreign missionary service.

Each edition contains reports, letters and articles from countries around the globe. Writers highlighted unique, exciting, life changing events brought about by the empowered proclamation of the full gospel of Jesus Christ.
This movement eventually influenced almost every denomination in the USA and millions of people around the world.
